When Aladdin rubbed the magic ring,
and by the power of the genie worked his
will in such delightfully mysterious fashion, he wandered through the subterranean region when the glint and sheen of myriad-hued stones reflected their light into his eyes, he witnessed no more distasteful array of scenic beauty than was apparent last evening in this city.
Wander where one might, gay Chinese lanterns twinkled brightly, and cast grotesque shadows on the moving throng beneath. In the dim night light, the bustling flashed lastly in the breeze, but the quiet
color tone later on gave place to a blaze of light that transformed the scene as if by magic. Throughout the streets along the line of march during the time of the passage of the procession, the scene seemed like a little bit of fairyland. The air was filled with very bolts of many hues; at intervals the cauldrons of red fire blazed up and cast weird shadows,
which the somber background of foliage only rendered more intense. And then as each division swept by the music of the accompanying band, no sooner began to fade away than the first notes from the next one broke gratefully upon the ear.
And what wondrous variety in the allegori-
cal subjects presented for the public notice
and approval, and in what gorgeous setting! If the delight of the multitude was not more loudly expressed even than it was, the reason was far to seek. Rapidly beautiful as the city might appear
last night, it was only one of the good things provided during the week surrendered to innocent mirth and folly. While not pretending to be capricious, the mind
can only appreciate values of high enjoyment up to a certain point, and after that it is a delightful mental stagnation. The task of the lotus in the lotus, and all else is nothing. That point was reached last night. The multitude that surged through the streets, that packed the avenues to the park, and that lined the stands,
while pleased and dazzled by the display, realized how much is yet to follow. A faint reminiscence of the languorous time of the Spanish dominion had been conjured up by the motley caberose in the parade, and so, while appreciating to the full all the beauties of the scene, no sooner
did the programme of entertainment close than the thoughts were projected to ward today. Truly just now, many a man, ever many a man, has a subtle meaning.
And as for the Queen of the Revels, who shall say that her reign will not be marked by events surpassing in note all that distinguished the brief rule of her predecessors? Loyal subjects all, the Ange-lenos and the thousands within the city's bounds, and yielding homage where inclination leads, and under such gentle sway are each day only too eager and delighted to come forth and enjoy the fresh delights provided for the new day.

AT CENTRAL PARK.
Where Lights and Shadows Played Hide and Seek.
The light veil of mist that hung over
the city only made a more effective background for the blaze of light and color that filled the streets. The city was a-glitter with the many-colored sparks
of electricity, and gay with the softer

glow of millions of Japanese lanterns hanging in almost unbroken rows along the principal streets. The grand stand at Central Park was the center of all the glitter and restless movement. The arc-lights, like stars anchored to earth, lit up the trees into a silver-green, and brought out all the brilliant colors of the banners and drapery, while away are
the slightly garish effect noticeable in broad daylight.
The hurrying throngs in the streets were dotted with makers, who seemed bent upon making the most of the carnival-time.
The "akiri" of that invention of the devil, the rancous and ear-splitting horn of commerce, was abroad

in the land, in the mouth of the ubiquitous small boy, who seemed to have provided himself with an especial fleet set of leather bellows, in the place of the usual outfit of mere lungs.

Hurdy-gurdies and other instruments of torture made the night
hideous with a medley of cacophony,
and the crunching of peanuts was heard on every side. The seats upon the tribunes and grandstand filled rapidly in the most desirable
places, but stretches of empty benches testified to the lack of warmth in both weather and enthusiasm.
About 8 o'clock the Queen and
court arrived, and mounted to the throne-platform, amid the applause of the assembled throng. Half an hour later, the clouds were lit with the somber glow of red that suggested a whole city in a state of active conflagration. Rockets shot like meteors athwart the glare. Roman candles sent their balls of many-colored fire down the squares. The trees and the hurling among the trees and then the red glare changed to brilliant green, and
the assembled multitude was instantly transformed from a crew of cheerful fiends, illuminated by the fire of the Inferno, to a congregation of merrymakers suddenly seized with cholera. At a fresh glare of lurid smoke shot up on the left, the heavy boom of cannon shook the air; and, with the blast
of trumpets and the throb of drums,
the procession rounded the corner in a flash.
The first platoon of police outriders was followed by the San Diego Band, tooting
in gallant style as they advanced briskly down the square. The next division came next, with the grand marshal, chief of staff and chief of couriers, followed by their respective companies. In this body rode also the advisory board and the Gentleman's Riding Club, the latter acting as escort to the director-general.
The prancing steeds had sobered down

and seemed to appreciate the significance of the occasion as they marched sedately past the throng.

THIRD DIVISION.
Historical Pieces that Glittered Beneath the Myriad Lights.
This division was under the charge of Division Marshal C. W. Hicks and aides
and was led by the Ontario Band. It contained the remainder of the Pageant of the Pacific, and the first float, bearing the Hawaiians, was received with hearty applause. The plump and pretty islanders in their gay costumes and with their glittering surroundings were made doubly picturesque by the sheen of red light which flashed around them.
Directly behind this float came a "feture," a Kanaka in full native dress, dancing aloft like a spring kid. The cheers grew uproarious as the little figure twirled and bounded like a rubber ball, and with no more apparent effort. A terrific "bang"
from the cannon sent him into the air with a sound like champagne, and he danced hither and ever, while the spectators rose as one man and yelled with glee.
The ice palace of the "Grand Albat"
glittered like the stars on a frosty night,
and the island of "Robinson Crusoe"
showed "Friday" awake and quite lively
after his refreshing slumber of the day before.
The "forty-niners" on the float representing "Sutter's Mill" were soaping themselves with the peaceful cigarette instead of the conventional pipe, and the "Stamp

Mill" churned its crushers up and down with unabated vigor. "The Buzz" of rockets and the boom of cannon made things lively all through the parade, and the spectators really got woke up to an enthusiasm quite unusual to Los Angeles crowd.

FIRST DIVISION.
Floats that Were Seen by Day Appeared Transformed.
The Pageant of the Pacific made a grand showing under the electric lights. The effect was much finer than that of the day,
the floats were an excellent representation
of the rugged cliffs and old stone temples. The Santa Barbara Band preceded
the pictorial figures.
The torches turned the "Gilded Man" in
the first float into a statue of burnished
gold, and the lights of the crowd made
the floats an excellent representation
of the rugged cliffs and old stone tem-
ples. The Santa Barbara Band preceded
the pictorial figures.

The torches turned the "Gilded Man" in
the first float into a statue of burnished
gold, and the lights of the crowd made
the floats an excellent representation
of the rugged cliffs and old stone tem-
ples. The Santa Barbara Band preceded
the pictorial figures.

The "Court of Montezuma" was gorgeous
to behold, and the regal attire of the Aztec brought back the vivid descriptions of that good old fighting scribe, Bernad Diaz, to the minds of many of the spectators.
The "Aztec Sacrifice" was more gruesome
than ever in the glare of red light,
and the effect was enhanced by the exchange of the conventional flint knife of
the "preluding elder" for a long and very sanguinary-looking sword, which he seemed about to plunge into the quivering
breast of his prostrate victim.
The Spanish soldiers surrounding these floats made a brave array in their gleaming armor, and one of the prettiest scenes of the pageant was when they paused before the throne and saluted the Queen
upon bended knee, while the audience expressed vociferous approval.

SECOND DIVISION.
In This the Objects Were Not What They Seemed.
The second division was preceded by the Boothard Band, and was under the charge of Division Marshal Capt. H. Hutton and aides. It contained another section of the historic pageant, and advanced amid a glare of rockets and red fire.
The warriors in the "Siege of Mexico"
seemed all prepared to inflict another
"Noche Triste" upon their Spanish foes,
and the torches showed the hideously-
painted faces to the fullest advantage.
The Isleta Indians, marching behind the floats of the "Chif Dwellers" and "Coronado and the Zunis," attracted the usual full measure of attention and applause, which they accepted with true Indian gravity of demeanor. Mr. Munroe will receive the thanks of the community for supplying

this most picturesque and interesting feature to the pageant.
The title but of the Colorado River Indians, showed up very effectively in the red light, and the "Mission" float looked particularly massive and imposing, until
a rear view showed a color of bare-legged small boys, "hooking" a free ride in the procession, and vociferously proclaiming
the fact that they were strictly "in it."
The picture of "Old Spanish Life" with its pretty memorials, received the hearty approval of the spectators, and the dark-eyed girls were more effective than ever in the rosy light.

FOURTH DIVISION.
In Which Appeared New Features
from Other Places.
The Orange Band marched before this with Division Marshal H. H. Mayberry and aides.
The first float was that of the G.A.R.
with high soldiers in uniform, and beautifully decorated with the national colors and insignia. The file and drum corps followed, and this patriotic pair evoked much applause.
The neat valley of San Joaquin was not absent in representation in the great parade of last night. In the one which took place on Tuesday afternoon there was no visible evidence of California's great interior section but with that of last night
the omission, if such it was, was amply atoned for in the magnificent float which bore the name of Fresno. The first glance of the idea presented was not fully apparent. The spectator, not thoroughly familiar with all the ambitious designs of that ambitious city, might naturally have asked for the connecting link between Fresno and a river steamer. He would not quickly conceive the "latter
as typical or emblematic of the former.
A Fresno resident could have told him
and have promptly furnished him the required knowledge. He would tell him that Fresno will, before many years, be practically a seaport town through its man-river and canal connections. This would explain why Fresno was represented in the parade by a river steamer. The float was of its kind, one of the handsomest
in all the line. It was substantially constructed and represented a side-wheel
steamer, showing paddle boxes, smoke-
stack, sunshade, railing, deck and deck house. The hull was painted white as
was also the taffrail, relieved by lines of gold. Standing well forward on the main deck was an officer of the boat and along the sides below the railing was a series of panels, on each of which was a photographic scene in Fresno or some portion of the San Joaquin Valley. The decorations were very striking, the blend of colors being particularly happy and the effect produced by the innumerable light-cascades of the street and the suspended incandescent lights made it viewed from a distance one of the most striking features of the parade.

FIFTH DIVISION.
Some More Really Artistic Floats
Follow in Order.
Division Marshal Perry Howard then advanced with his aides, accompanied by the Blanchard-Fitzgerald Band.
REDLANDS.
Immediately following the Blanchard-Fitzgerald band of Los Angeles came the float contributed by Redlands to La Fiesta.
To say that it was worthy of that enterprising city would be giving it but scant praise, for it would not be saying very much to assert that it was a premium offered for the prettiest float, combining, at the same time, the prettiest emblem of the source from which it originated, and the idea it was meant to convey, there would be few, if any, which could hope to withhold from it first honors. On an immense platform, with an orange nearly six feet in diameter,

This was surrounded by a crown
of corresponding proportions painted in La Fiesta colors. From the opposing tops of the crown
to the four corners of the float were flying buttresses of roses and other flowers, while the base was one immense solid mass of navy blue orange. Then came a float which imagined anything much prettier than this float as emblematic of what it represented. The bright yellow, red and green colors
mingling with the rays from the electric lamps produced a prismatic effect that will long be remembered by those who saw the noted Redlands' happy contribution to La Fiesta de Los Angeles.

SIXTH DIVISION.
The Caballeros Again Greeted with Vociferous Applause.
The Catalina Band marched before
the sixth division, which was in charge of J.
C. Cline and aides. The first feature of this division was one of the prettiest in the whole pageant, for the "Tropo de Caballeros Angelenos" filled the road with a dash and glitter of restless movement
as their beautiful, fiery horses reared and plunged and danced from side to side. It was a brilliant sight, these picturesque spaniards in rich black velvet, with dashes of bright color and gleams of silver, as they reined up before the throne
and saluted the Queen with sweeping bows and waves of their wide sombreros.
One skillful rider dropped a handkerchief and recovered it with an easy swoop
from the saddle, and many feats of excellent horsemanship were shown by this gallant troop.
They were followed by the beautiful

float of the Chamber of Commerce, and the white structure was doubly effective in the red glare which threw out all its ornate and stately lines, modeled after the purest Greek architecture. Hearty applause greeted this most popular float.
The trade floats of Clark & Bryan, Miller
& McGrath, F. W. Braun & Co., Owl Drug Company, Master Plumbers' Association
and Newell Bros. completed this division.

SEVENTH DIVISION.
The Journeymen Butchers and the King Gambrian Tableau.
This was led by the Concord Band, and Division Marshal Lewis Thorne and aides.
The Journeymen Butchers' Association marched on foot, 150 strong, clad all in white aprons and caps, and they were followed by the trade floats and wagons of Mead, Wright & Co., Miller & Zobeles, Kingsbaker Bros. & Co., H. Bohl & Co.,

All cities, outside of Los Angeles, satisfied themselves with having but one float
in the great fiesta parade, but not so with San Pedro. That ambitious seaport was truly represented, having no less than three floats in last night's parade. One was a large, full-rigged yacht, beautifully made and perfect, apparently, in design and detail. On the float could be seen a number of lads in sailor costume and who,
although of years too tender to "splice the main brace" were yet, in build, sufficiently well-braced to pull a tow line. A second float was a large representation of what San Pedro Harbor would look like when completed as a deep-sea harbor, and the third one was a locomotive of new design, on the tender of which were painted
the words, "San Pedro and Salt Lake Railway." The locomotive was furnished with a peculiar and novel device, which
as though it would remorselessly clear out of its way any and all obstructions. This latter was no doubt typical of the fact that San Pedro has made up their mind
to have a railway to Salt Lake and that,
no matter what the difficulties in the way
were, they would be surmounted. It looks in fact as though San Pedro had finally determined to bring ship and car together.
The Mt. Lowe float looked most realistic in the torch-light, and the little white chairs ran up and down the incline
with unabated vigor, lighted by the electric sparks that gemmed the mimic mountain.

ORANGE COUNTY.
Orange county well and honorably sustained its name in its quota to last night's beautiful parade. First of all came the Orange Band as if announcing to the thousands on thousands of spectators that Orange county was about to appear on the scene. Immediately following the band came the float and which, in its most minute details, was a truthful and happy illustration of the abundant and varied resources of that youthful but energetic county. The bed of the float was a white ground on which were worked in different designs the festa colors. Upon the float there reclined in throne-like chairs, young ladies representing the principal towns of the county.
The place of honor was naturally accorded to Anaheim as the senior of the cities, but it may be remarked in passing that, although the senior in years, it was represented by as charming and youthful a maiden as were any of the young cities of the county. At each corner of the float the name of the city represented was painted, the name being embellished by paintings of fruit, flowers and other products for which Orange county has, in
so comparatively short a time, made itself
famous among the counties of the Golden State.

POMONA.
Among the many new floats to be seen
in last night's street parade that did not appear in the day parade of Tuesday afternoon there was one that was markedly

THE TIMES BUILDING AND "OLD GLORY."

notable, it was the one from Pomona.
Rarely, if ever, has the mythological goddess of fruits and flowers been more beautifully represented than she was in the float contributed by the city which her charmed name. By a strange circumstance, no doubt purely accidental, Pomona,
in the order of the procession, closely followed DeFoe's celebrated Robinson Crusoe. There on his desert island, refined the unfortunate castaway, and hardly had one time to recall the memories of boyhood he awakened, than the eye of the spectator looked down upon the car of Pomona, suggestive of all that luxurious, abundant and of home and family. The float, artistic in conception and execution, represented a combination of all the fruits and flowers that the goddess typifies. The center part was occupied by an orange of giant proportions, so real in appearance as to set one thinking of the immense size of the tree that could bear such prodigious fruit. A moment's reflection was sufficient, however, to lead the thought to a more correct understanding of

it. True, it was an orange, in appearance, but so large that not even a tree as great as a banyan could have supported it. It was a painted orange, but tinted to a degree of truthfulness as almost to defy detection. At either corner of the float was a quarter-section of lemons and on all four sides were paintings representing the many other productions of Pomona section.

LONG BEACH.
Another striking contrast, pretty in its suggestiveness, was that offered in the floats of the G.A.R. and of Long Beach.
The first thing remarked at this section of the parade was the Santa Ana Band
with its splendid drum corps and which,
by the way, was the only one in the parade. Then came a float which, in all solemnity, as became it, the great float of the G.A.R., prominent on which, was a large portrait of Gen. Grant. Then, as if rising from its billowy home, came the lovely and enchanting float bearing the inscription, in large letters, "Long Beach."
The mind that conceived the idea represented in this float must have been at the moment in particularly happy vein.
An immense sea-shell, such as deep-sea
divers tell of having seen while diving
for pearls at the bottom of the ocean, is the motive. It is in a tilted position as though by some herculean force it had been forced open. The outer part is pearl and mother-of-pearl, such as it would naturally appear exposed to the watery element, but the inner portion is painted with all the delicate tints and touches to be seen on mother-of-pearl. Beneath its shade are seen reclining a bevy of nymphs, so fresh and charming in appearance as
to excite wonder, and prompt the question
how it came that old father Neptune, the ruler of the deep, would dare trust them beyond their natural element. Little wonder that spectators exclaimed, as the float passed by: "Oh, isn't that pretty;
isn't that cute!" and their verdict may well be endorsed. It was alone of its kind, but the admiration it excited must
and will be a source of joy to those who conceived the idea and carried it out.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 17.—W. H. T. Durrant, the young man under arrest for the murder of Minnie Williams, who is suspected of having also killed the Lamont, two young women whose bodies were found in Emanuel Baptist church in this city, is either preparing to plead guilty or else the most hideous of men come to him in his cell at the local Police station at night.

On last night he had entirely regained composure and was not suffering from mental strain so apparent on Monday when in a dream he fought some ghastly foe. When he stretched himself out on his mattress last night and tried to sleep he said that he did not feel disturbed, as he was tired and in need of the excitement of the day. At 10 o'clock this morning Officer Thero was on duty at the prison-door. Sergeant Shields, the prison-keeper, was started by a loud cry from one of the cells.

He went toward the cell. The cries came from Durrant, who was evidently arising from another hideous nightmare. He tossed and rolled on his mattress and uttered loud and louder.

He was called by the approach of the warden, who turned over on his side and appeared to sink into a quiet sleep. Durrant had been on the night shift and is supposed to have killed Miss Williams. He does not show any sign of blood. His mother, Durrant, had made an appeal to the public through the newspaper, asking for suspension of judgment on her son until other than circumstantial evidence is produced. The chain of evidence against Durrant is growing longer.

THE CORONER'S INQUEST.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 17.—Coroner James resumed his inquiry into the death of Minnie Williams this morning earlier than yesterday, but for an hour before the doors opened the crowd commenced to gather and a detachment of policemen had all it could do to keep the curious throng quiet. Considerable interest was manifested by those present in the proceedings, as it was expected that some sensational testimony would be introduced by women witnesses and other links added to the chain of evidence against Durrant. Judge Thero, the coroner's officer, arrived on time but his client failed to appear in an appearance and it was soon ascertained that the prisoner did not want to attend unless the coroner's request by the coroner. That gentleman said Durrant's presence necessary asked the Chief of Police to have sent to the coroner's office. No disposition whatever was created by the arrival of the prisoner who looked a trifle worn out but carried himself well, as he sometimes lurking around his cell but that was all.

Gibson was late, but appeared at a slight delay. He was the first witness called. He testified that he had been in the house of Miss Williams three times to his certain knowledge. He had never been very intimate with Durrant, but he had seen her body at first sight. He had never been in the church and did not know whether Durrant had or not. He identified the broken knife about 9:30, and near the body and also the stick to tamp the cloth into Miss Williams' mouth.

Mr. Vogt, at whose house Miss Williams was on the afternoon of the night which she was murdered, testified that he had never heard of Durrant and Miss Williams by no other name. He had given the clothes which he identified the clothes shown by the coroner as those worn by Miss Williams. Mr. Vogt gave corroborative evidence as to the fact that Durrant had been in the house of the late Minnie Williams as she could afford the expense. She also identified the clothes.

Immer A. Wolf testified that he last saw Durrant on Friday night about 12 o'clock, both being of the party that saw the lady home from the social. Mr. Vogt, thinks he saw him a few minutes after standing on Twenty-fourth street, but is not sure. He said that Durrant arrived at Vogt's house about 9:30, did not come directly into the parlor. Mr. Vogt, at whose house the social was held, testified that he knew all the party concerned. Durrant's hair looked disheveled. Durrant asked for a place where he could wash and dry his hair. The witness denied ever seeing Durrant at the social. Durrant, but had said that he had been wet with perspiration. He said that Durrant had explained his tardiness saying he had been at the army. A statement was read to the witness to the effect that he was told by "that young lady" that his cousin, Miss Williams, father of the murdered girl, had spoken about Durrant to him and that he did not go into details. Williams testified the pocketbook found in Durrant's pocket was one he had given to his daughter.

Miss Lord, Miss Stevens and Harry Lord testified as to the finding of the body in the church. James Sudenman, the sexton of the church, testified that he thought Durrant had a key to the church because he had seen him alone in the building. The boy did not know Miss Williams.

Sergeant Shields described how he searched Durrant's clothes and found the purse. Miss Lena Berry said that she knew both Durrant and Miss Williams, but had never seen them together.

William Bradshaw was in the army of the Signal Corps all Friday night. He did not see Durrant until Saturday morning. The inquest was adjourned until tomorrow morning.

Durrant objected to attending the inquest this morning and said he had been advised by his attorneys that the police had no right to force him to attend, but when the police insisted he went. Chief Crowley was much worried over this and is afraid that Durrant's attorney will take advantage of this point when the case comes to trial. The coroner, however, had been advised by the District Attorney and insists that Durrant shall attend. Durrant enjoyed a hearty breakfast. He read the morning paper with interest and spends most of his time reading or talking to visitors. He remains being stared at.

FROM ANOTHER POINT OF VIEW.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 17.—The inquest in the Emanuel church murder is still intense, and the progress of the coroner's inquest is closely watched for exciting developments. So far nothing startling, beyond what is already known, has been brought out. The strong sentiment against Durrant seems to be undergoing reaction. A number of people who appear to believe in his innocence are on the increase. Durrant does not act like a guilty man. His demeanor is more that of a man who is perfectly confident that his innocence of the awful crimes will be certainly proved when the proper time comes.

If he is a ravisher and murderer, he is certainly possessed of a wonderful nerve. Nothing appears to shake him or disturb his air of confidence. He has been sleeping badly, but that is probably natural under the circumstances. During the night he has been restless and nervous. He makes no slips nor awkward admissions, in spite of the many traps laid for him by reporters and detectives. He converses readily on any topic, except that of the crimes with which he is charged. When that subject is broached, he begs to be excused, and refers the question to his attorney.

The testimony at the inquest today, while in some respects damaging to Durrant, was not as strong as had been anticipated. The fact that he had made an improper proposal to Dr. Vogel's niece was brought out, and that will probably tell against him, but the attempts to positively identify him as the man who killed the Lamont, were not successful. The evening inquest with a woman failed. The witnesses could only say that Durrant looked like the man. Also in every instance it showed that Durrant was not the man who killed the Lamont. The various witnesses went, Durrant and Miss Williams were not intimate. They were never seen together, nor did they ever speak to each other. Miss Williams' father, Dr. Vogel, was not present. The action was afterward discontinued and the present suit brought. Mrs. Cutting alleged that her husband said that he would support her, but that they must live apart and to this arrangement he refused to consent. She says she is without means and has been since her residence here, which is of about fourteen months' duration. She asked that her husband be compelled to support her and give her means to prosecute this suit.

Cutting's counsel claimed that Mrs. Cutting was a woman of wealth, while the defendant has only $2000 a year, out of which he was compelled to pay for the tuition of his daughter by a former wife. The defendant denied that he was ever brought home drunk by a woman. He charged that his wife abused him and that she was addicted to the use of profane language. The judge refused to allow alimony and on the question of counsel fees said that he would reserve his decision.

NEW YORK, April 17.—The world this morning says that Rev. Dr. Farquhar, recently settled in England, has been in a social position commensurate with the wealth of his father's family, and inferior to that of an American woman that ever lived. The defendant denied that he was ever brought home drunk by a woman. He charged that his wife abused him and that she was addicted to the use of profane language. The judge refused to allow alimony and on the question of counsel fees said that he would reserve his decision.

She was born fifty-five years ago, and her maiden name was Fielding. Her first marriage was to Mr. Sallade, who soon died. Then she became the wife of an English adventurer named Sharpe. He led her to the country, and for some time edited a Knight of Labor paper. Mrs. Sallade owned a big business on Broadway, and he married her and became a partner in it. He left her suddenly and she never saw him again. She was a widow, and he was a man of letters. She was a widow, and he was a man of letters. She was a widow, and he was a man of letters.

Mrs. Sallade returned to New York, leaving the judge sighing at the railway station. Sharpe followed his wife, secured the child, and thinking that she never would be found. She was unearthed, however, whereupon Sharpe, seeing he was being thwarted right and left, died. When the judge was settled Judge Havens, who had the idea that when two or three "booters" arrived on the same quarter section, and after claiming it simultaneously, would go to law, that the law would be good for him, that for awhile. Mrs. Havens said last night: "We are going to Oklahoma, and I guess there are many people in Fourteenth street who will be glad, too, that I am gone, though I do not believe the street will ever have a relapse and become what it was before it was purified. I undertook the crusade on account of my little daughter, Ethel. Sharpe, who I thought was a good man, was compelled to witness the wickedness of the women in that section of the city, but I am not sorry it is all over."

WONDERFUL TWINS.

NEW YORK, April 17.—A most wonderful pair of girl twins was born in the city just before midnight on Monday. They are perfectly formed, healthy, and hearty, but joined together at the hips. The physician who attended the birth to Dr. S. Tyngberg, who today said the case was the only one on record.

"The babies," said the doctor, "are joined diagonally from the lower part of the spinal column to the upper part of the pelvis. It is believed that the bones known as the sacrum and coccyx are joined in both bodies. Another singular feature of the case is that the children, although joined at the back are able to face the front, owing to the elasticity of the flesh at the juncture. They have each the usual quota of limbs, separate and distinct. Only one physician besides myself has seen the children and he is Dr. Hendon, president of the County Medical Society. He agrees with me in believing the case without a duplicate.

"When the question of operating to separate the children arose, we resorted to more slowly. The danger is great, death being sure to ensue if there is a common arterial system and at present the children are in such good health that we are letting well enough alone."

Suit Growing Out of His Misconduct.

She Claims that the General Abandoned Her in San Francisco.

Defendant Denies the Charges and in Return Accuses Her of Abusing Him—Plaintiff's Petition is Denied.

By Telegram to The Times.

NEW YORK, April 17.—(Special Dispatch.) Application was made to Judge Gildersleeve in the Superior Court today by Lawyer Abe Hummel, on behalf of Mrs. Christine Lohr Cutting, for alimony and counsel fees, pending an action for separation which she has brought against her husband, Gen. John T. Cutting of San Francisco. Mrs. Cutting says that soon after her marriage her husband secured $7500 of hers in bank stock. After getting this she says that her husband's conduct toward her was altered. He was cold and indifferent and finally, when they returned to San Francisco, she alleges, her husband on one occasion drove up to their home in a cab with a woman of loose character. Mrs. Cutting saw her husband alight, and as he started for the house, she says the woman in the cab called out: "Well, dearie, won't you pay my fare home?" The general thereupon turned back and paid the cabman, according to Mrs. Cutting, who says that her husband was intoxicated at the time, and that the woman who was with him was "no better than she should be."

In November, 1893, Gen. Cutting, it is charged, abandoned his wife in San Francisco and came to this city. She followed and begged him to live with her, but she says that he refused to do so. In October last Mrs. Cutting had the general arrested on a charge of abandonment, and he was released on giving $2000 bail. The action was afterward discontinued and the present suit brought. Mrs. Cutting alleges that her husband said that he would support her, but that they must live apart and to this arrangement he refused to consent. She says she is without means and has been since her residence here, which is of about fourteen months' duration. She asked that her husband be compelled to support her and give her means to prosecute this suit.

The Browns and McGill at the Head of Two Hundred Men Attack the Chicakwas Officers—The Whites Fleeing.

ST. LOUIS, April 17.—A Republic special from Guthrie, Okla., says that officers just arrived from Tishimongo, the capital of the Chicakwas Nation, report that a battle is raging between Gov. Mosley and 200 insurrectionists. Six people have been killed and eight wounded, so the report says, and great excitement prevails. The cause of trouble is due to bad political blood, which has long pervaded the Chicakwas seat of government and which has existed since the last session of the Legislature. Willis Brown, Charles Brown and Noah McGill, who claimed to have been elected sheriffs of the nation, allege that the Legislature acted illegally when it rejected their claims to such offices.

On Tuesday morning Gov. Mosely issued orders to all sheriffs, constables and deputies throughout the nation to report to him at once with arms. When the officers gathered around the house 200 enraged men, headed by McGill and the Brown brothers, rushed from adjoining houses and a deadly riot followed. The names of the dead and wounded could not be ascertained by the couriers, owing to the great excitement which prevailed. Gov. Mosely and his official retinue escaped by running to town on the outskirts of the town. Mosely has called a special session of the Legislature to take action. Tishimongo is now in a terrible state of excitement, and white people are fleeing. Another carnage is looked for at any moment.

The Friends of Miss Mary Cowan Anxious About Her.

The relatives of Miss Mary Cowan, teacher in the Tenth-street school, resides with her parents at No. 824 Tenth street, are terribly distressed the sudden disappearance of that lady under most mysterious circumstances.

Miss Cowan, who is described as a handsome brunette, a little above average in height, about 25 years of age, left her home about 8 o'clock on Tues-dentist, an ulcerated tooth having occasioned her considerable trouble for a few days past. She did not return and upon inquiry, it was learned that she never reached the dentist's office, her relatives at once became uneasy and instituted a search for her. The police were notified, but in spite of their efforts no traces of the missing girl could be obtained.

Although apparently in fairly good health and of sound mind when she home, Miss Cowan's relatives are of opinion that she was either temporarily deranged by pain, or that she was induced to take some pretended toothache and drugged. They scout the idea of

LA FIESTA DE LOS ANGELES.

The beauty of our days; the brightness of our street decorations, and the splendid pageantry of the fiesta processions, with their numerous floats, and fine bands keeping step to lively music; the well-mounted, prancing horses; the elegant equipages; the burros, laden as in olden days when States were in their infancy; the marching Indians in their bright blankets, with their small, black-eyed pop-poes upon their shoulders; the gaily-dressed thousands that line the streets; banners streaming from tall roofs, from electric poles, and from hundreds of wires stretched across our wide thoroughfares; with palms and bright bunting enveloping every support of the long lines of electric wires, until the streets look like the border land of a beautiful semi-tropical forest; the elegance and regality which envelops La Fiesta's Queen, and the beauty of her attendant maidens—all this must be seen in order in any measure to appreciate the glamor and charm of La Fiesta de Los Angeles.

The spectacle is necessarily not wholly American in the impression which it leaves upon the mind. It is attractive not only because it is illustrative of the push, the energy and the greatness of today, but of that vaster, vanished yesterday, vaster in the great epochs of time which it embraced, and to which we look backward as a period in which, all unknowingly, its people and its civilization which have passed, paved the pathway for the present. They made ready the land for us, this land of golden sunshine, rich in its climatic wealth and the hidden treasures of its soil. It was almost virgin soil which the American came to occupy. The children of the sun which were here before us, and the dark-eyed Spaniard, did little to exhaust it. Their sheep and cattle roamed the vast grass-clad plains, but the plow they seldom used. The great orchards which cover the land today the hand of the American planted; the vast vineyards which grow purple in the warm sunshine, or show the gleam of the white clusters of muscatels, are the work of our newer civilization. We have brought hither the plow and the reaper. The steam harvester has been like the advancing tread of a new civilization. Cities and towns have sprung up here as if by magic. The old blood and the new have been mingled, and today we have a civilization here in California that in many respects is distinctively different from the life on our Atlantic borders.

It would be no easy matter to fully repeat La Fiesta de Los Angeles in other sections of the country, because here so many elements of the old past linger. The newcomer, looking upon our street pageants, feels the thrill of a vanished civilization and the lingering life-throb of a passing race. He sees in fancy the old sunburnt bricks with their tiled roofs dotting this beautiful valley; catches a glimpse of the stately-eyed senorita with the midnight in her hair; listens for the creak of the slow-moving carreta, and sniffs the scent of the fresh earth as it is slowly upturned by the dull wooden plow. As he goes to take his place where he may witness today's parade, he passes crumbling adobe in the older streets of Los Angeles, where walk, as of yore, the bright-eyed girls with the flush of the rose upon their cheeks and the kiss of the sun upon their foreheads. The fronts of many of these old adobe are win-dowless, and he wonders of the old life is still going on behind those closed walls, and underneath those red-tiled roofs. It is yesterday—the long yesterday of the past—in the quiet "Sonoratown" of our city, and there you see gray-headed old dons, and fat senoras who still wear the black rebosas and who could tell you of that other life of Los Angeles when she was but a Spanish pueblo, bearing no resemblance to the city of today, gay with banners, filled with pomp, a city of massive buildings, of elegant homes, of paved streets, with electric and cable cars, filled with people from all lands. Only the same bright and cloudless skies bend above us, and the same rich soil is at our feet, covered with lush grasses, the air full of richest fragrance and the melody of bird-song, the hills golden with the yellow poppy—those cups of gold which brim with the eternal sunshine. It is a gay scene, yet the mission church fronts the Plaza, and the cowed priests, with mangled feet, walk in the garden spaces, and this all reminds you of the vanished yesterday. But while thinking of them we are doubly glad for the new today that is with us. Old Glory floats above us—the emblem of freedom and of progress, and as the past slips from our sight we beckon to the glorious future which we feel is ours, and with hearts full of hope and of gladness we enter into the fullness of the spirit of La Fiesta, feeling that here we have a magnificent heritage.

And here we welcome our guests from all sections of the State and country, the good citizens from all lands who come hither to sojourn for the time being, or make their homes with us. For one week in every passing year we shall hold our joyous fiesta; it is the week of jubilee for all the good that is ours, when we let care slip from our shoulders and rejoice together that our lot has fallen in so goodly a land—the garden of the continent.

With all due respect to the ragacity of the San Francisco police and newspapers, the evidence thus far adduced against the young medical student, Durrant, is far from conclusive. The San Francisco police and press (excepting the Call) appear to have started upon the assumption that Durrant was guilty, and afterward to have strained every effort toward the one task of proving their theory correct. The web of circumstantial evidence woven around the prisoner is indeed bewildering, and, though contradictory in many essentials, it seems to form a very strong case against him. But it is not impossible that it is some other figure of the "theory" of the San Francisco hawkshaws, nearly or quite as formidable an array of circumstantial evidence might have been woven about him. Judgment should at least be suspended until the truth or falsity of the "theory" has been proven.

Senator Stewart's audacious "open letter" to President Cleveland presents the views of the silver extremists in piquant and rather forcible language. Senator Stewart represents one extreme, while President Cleveland represents the other. The practical solution of the monetary question lies between these extremes. The silver extremists would force the United States to a course of independent action which would lead to disaster. The gold monometallists would compel a course almost or quite as disastrous, by forcing the virtual disuse of silver as a money metal. Sensible bimetalism, founded upon international agreement, will avoid either danger, and maintain the integrity of both forms of coinage.

The Japanese money indemnity has dwindled to 1,000,000 yen, according to the latest reports, while the acquisition of territory on the Chinese mainland by Japan has been considerably increased in comparison to the earlier reports as to the terms of settlement. There is no doubt that the territory conquered by Japan will be much better governed by that nation than it has been governed by China, and it is much to be doubted whether European nations will seriously attempt to interfere in the terms of peace, so long as those terms are satisfactory to the two nations directly interested.

The New York Sun expresses the opinion that "if there is interest enough in the Democratic party to hold a national convention next year, it will help the Democrats to have a thorough American citizen like John T. Morgan of Alabama at the head of the committee that makes the platform." John T. Morgan is truly a thoroughly American citizen, and the Democracy could make no better choice than to nominate him for President. But it really doesn't matter, for it is a foregone conclusion that no Democratic candidate will be "in it" in 1896.

A sensational story from Paris says the Scandinavian explorer, Dr. Hansen, has succeeded in reaching the North Pole and nailed thereto the flag of Charles XII. of Sweden. Now, if some other explorer, Scandinavian or otherwise, will only start out and find the South Pole, and, having found it, nail thereto the name of Grover Cleveland, the world will have an apt illustration of what constitute a positive and a negative pole.

Yesterday the Santa Barbara Flower Festival began its three-days' riot among the roses. The streets of the city are spanned by immense floral arches, and there is a perfect deluge of flowers on every hand. An attractive programme has been arranged, and the event promises to be as great a success as our own Fiesta de Los Angeles.

The recent shipments of shoes from the United States to England are not a novel experiment, as some persons seem to imagine. For several years past American shoes in greater or less quantity have sold in foreign markets. American shoe manufacturing machinery is the finest in the world, and enables us virtually to defy competition.

The Ohio man has not been much in evidence of late, but now comes the announcement that the mayors of both New York and Chicago are Ohio men. From this it would appear that Ohio is looking up, and there are many indications that Ohio will look up as high as the Presidency next year.

The Times is in receipt of a letter from an "Eastern Man" containing more growls to the line than there are States in the Union. The only reply this paper has to make to it is that it never notices anonymous communications, not even when they come from an Eastern man "Up East."

Again the fake story has been started on its travels, to the effect that J. Wilkes Booth, the murderer of Lincoln, is still alive. This story is so knock-kneed and decrepit that it has to travel on crutches; but it is still traveling.

To the surprise, no doubt, of Joaquin Miller and his employers, the little island republic still lives, moves, and has its being, notwithstanding Mr. Miller's recent attempt to overthrow it.

The three women members of the Colorado Legislature, it is stated, have accomplished absolutely nothing in the way of legislation. But then, they were in very small minority.

Apparently the desire of everybody to have a taxable income is just as great now as it was before the obnoxious law was passed.

The man who consents to accept the Democratic nomination for the Presidency in 1896 will be a man of unusual bravery.

Chicago's new Chief of Police is named Badenoch. He certainly has a bad enough city in which to operate.

Is La Fiesta de Los Angeles a success? Well, rather!

AT THE PLAYHOUSES.

ORPHEUM.—The carnival programme at the Orpheum is especially appropriate for fiesta week, the bright, lively and clever specialties being in keeping with the spirit of the carnival everywhere. The house has been packed, even standing-room being at a premium at two performances, and the indications are that the spirit of the carnival is in full capacity all week. The bill is made up of the cleverest and most refined and artistic specialties ever seen in this city. A CRISIS REACHED.

Armenia is Preparing to Fight Turkey.

A General Uprising of the Downtrodden People is Predicted in the Near Future.

Martini-Henry Rifles Hidden in the Mountain Fastnesses—Butchery Will be Something Awful. The Powers.

Associated Press Special Service.

LONDON, April 17.—(By Atlantic Cable, Associated Press Copyright, 1895.) The correspondent of the Associated Press, writing from Armenia, under date of March 17, says:

"I have traveled many hundreds of miles in Armenia, and have visited the Armenian colonies as far east as the Caspian, and as far south as the city of Teheran, and have learned, after the most careful investigation and verification of the facts, that the Armenian question will soon reach an acute and painful crisis. In fact, Armenia is preparing for war. The revolutionary party has now both money and guns. During the past eight weeks money has poured into the revolutionary treasury in a steady stream from the Armenian colonies in Russia, Persia, Baku, Rumania, and other places in Russia, and in Persia, Teheran, Tiflis, Kholak and other places in Persia. The central idea of the plan of campaign is a general uprising of Armenians throughout the Turkish empire some time during the month of May. The leaders promised the people in the eastern part of Armenia that the chief attack will be made in the city of Constantinople itself, and that the brunt of the fighting will be done by the Armenian residents therein, but this may be only a subterfuge to encourage the Armenian residents in Persia, Baku, Rumania, and other places in Russia, and in Persia, Teheran, Tiflis, Kholak and other places in Persia. FORGOT THE STRIKE

General Dimond May Again Lead to Glory.

Is Says Gov. Budd Will Reappoint Him Commander of the Militia.

Gov. Budd and the Code Commissioners—Republicans at Stockton—Foreign Currents—Royal Arch Masons.

Associated Press Lead-wire Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 17.—Gov. Budd has decided to reappoint Maj.-Gen. William H. Dimond as commander of the California National Guard. The Governor has signified his intention to Gen. Dimond himself of making the appointment. Gen. Dimond said in regard to the matter: "I have not as yet been officially informed regarding my appointment, but Gov. Budd informed me that he would not accept the resignation that I tendered some time ago. If recommended, I should most certainly recognize the great compliment paid me by the Governor in a hearty co-operation with him in an endeavor to reorganize the National Guard of this State and put it upon a more efficient and perfect basis."

A REMARKABLE STORY.

Sidelights on the Career of Mrs. John Bensley.

Associated Press Lead-wire Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 17.—The story of an unscrupulous woman, bright, fascinating and intelligent, an extraordinary degree and a weak, crafty, selfish man, reputed to be public-spirited and charitable, a Dr. Jekyll-and-Mr. Hyde sort of a fellow, will be found in a suit bearing the title of E. A. McMahon vs. B. G. Chando et al. in the Superior Court. The hearing of the suit will bring to the surface again an explanation of a great many points that have been shrouded in mystery since handsome Mrs. Greenville came to San Francisco in 1868, and the country has learned just where, wooded and won John Bensley and settled down to the enjoyment of married life, backed by a respectable bank account.

The property involved in the action brought by McMahon, who claims to be a son of Mrs. Bensley, through his attorney, George C. Perry, lies in the Portico, the principal part of which is known as the Ludlum, and is valuable. This property has been in litigation for the past twenty years, though had it not been for McMahon's appearance on the scene, the present owner would doubtless have remained in practically undisturbed possession. C. C. Tripp, one of the attorneys in the case, said:

"Mrs. Bensley was born in Virginia and was a daughter of John and Mary Ingles, her name being Mary Ingles, and one of the eight children. She was a very beautiful girl and used to treat a great deal of the Mississippi and Ohio rivers. She has been married three times, the first occurring in 1860 in Iowa. At the end of ten years, she was divorced, the husband securing a divorce a year later, on the ground of desertion. The next heard of Mary Ingles was in London, where, under the name of Marion L. Chando, she lived with John Bensley, her husband, and Minnie Louise Gruse, she led a gay life, a throng of admirers constantly surrounding her. While in England she married a person who went under the name of McDonald Greville, but whose real name was Edward A. Gething, and a member of the Royal Guards."

"Although the wife of Gething, she had a powerful influence over Lord Hillsborough, heir to the estate of Downshire, and was at length paid £6000 by the nobleman's family to leave the country. Shortly after her arrival in America a son was born to her which she left to her mother, changing the name to McMahon, that her father might not be able to locate her. The story of her arrival in San Francisco has already been told, but the interest does not stop there. On the 17th of March, 1888, B. G. Chando, whose real name is Zaccaria Ingles, came to San Francisco and claimed that he and his sisters, Sarah E. Hardesty, Jennie Goodrich and Lucy Roundtree, were the heirs, well knowing that such was false."

Chando, it is claimed, was none other than the mysterious James de Tarente, who acted as the intermediary when Bensley was dealing all his property over to his wife. Much of the property she had put in the name of Marion de Tarente, and afterwards had a power of attorney made by the alleged Marion de Tarente and her alleged husband, James de Tarente to her, Mrs. Bensley. James de Tarente was Chando, it is alleged, and Ingles, an attorney, was the attorney for the alleged Marion de Tarente. The Bensleys, husband and wife, died in 1888. The new claimant is a book-keeper on the Kansas City Times."

CODE COMMISSIONERS.

Gov. Budd Will Appoint Judge Baldwin and Judge Hayne.

Associated Press Lead-wire Service.

SACRAMENTO, April 17.—Gov. Budd, in an interview last night, said: "I have decided to name Judge F. T. Baldwin of Stockton and Judge Hayne of San Francisco as two of the code commissioners. Judge Baldwin is well known. He is one of the clearest-headed and best-informed attorneys on the coast. Judge Hayne is a lawyer and a practitioner of the law. He is a grandson of Robert Y. Hayne, of historical fame."

Governor Budd has appointed the following directors of the State Agricultural Society: John E. Budd, president; the Governor; William Land, proprietor of the Western Hotel; John Mackay, superintendent of the rancho del Paso, vice L. E. Shippee; W. L. Hardison and Christopher Green.

FELL FROM A TRESTLE.

Adolph Kruse of Oakland Is Killed Near Hornbrook.

Associated Press Lead-wire Service.

HORN BROOK (Cal.), April 17.—Adolph Kruse of Oakland, who has been prospecting on Hungry creek for the last month, arrived here on Monday. He had been drinking all day and displayed some money. He started to walk to his mine after supper last night, a distance of fifteen miles. Tuesday his mangled body was found at a mile north of here under a railroad trestle 84 feet high. His Newfound dog was watching the remains and refused to let anyone come near.

FOREIGN CURRENTS.

Fruit Men Protest Against Their Going on the Free List.

Associated Press Lead-wire Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 17.—A meeting of the San Francisco Fruit Exchange was held today for the purpose of protesting against the admission of currants from foreign countries into the United States free. This action was taken because a recent decision by the board of general appraisers that all currants except those from California are entitled to free entry into the United States. The meeting was largely attended by the principal shippers and producers of the State, including representatives from the San Joaquin Valley and elsewhere. The following was sent to Washington:

To the Hon. George C. Perkins and the Hon. Stephen M. White: Unless an appeal from the decision of the New York appraisers in the case of placing currants on the free list is taken prior to May 1 said decision will become operative, thus striking a terrible blow at our fruit industry. We urge you to take immediate steps toward filing an appeal with the Treasury Department."

MOVING A MONSTER.

Considerable Difficulty in Getting the Coast-defense Rifle in Place.

Associated Press Lead-wire Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 17.—Considerable difficulty is being experienced in moving the monster 12-inch coast defense rifle from the bay beach, where it was landed from a barge, to the bluff at Fort Point overlooking the Golden Gate, where it will be mounted.

The huge weapon is forty-two feet long and weighs sixty tons, without either breech-block or carriage. The latter is already in place, but the breech-block has not been sent out from the East and will not be until the rifle is in position. This is the first of the three large coast-defense rifles to reach this coast. The second will be placed near the fort and the third will be mounted upon the bluff across the bay near Lime Point.

NEW GAME LAWS.

They are not Amenable to Supervisors.

An Opinion by Assistant Attorney-General Daly on the Mooted Question.

Nearly a Riot at Bay District—Nashville and Memphis Race—Bicycleist McDonald Ill—London Papers on Dwyer.

Associated Press Lead-wire Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 17.—Sporadic anglers will undoubtedly be pleased to learn that the supervisors of the different counties cannot meddle in any way with either the fish or game laws. It was thought that the supervisors had power to shorten either the game or fishing seasons in response to requests of the sportsmen of their respective counties, but, according to the following communication received by Commissioner of Fish and Game, the Attorney-General, the supervisors are powerless to make alteration in the general law. The following is a copy of the letter:

To Hon. T. E. Emery, President of the Fish Commissioners: Answering the communication of your board of March 30, I would say that the act to amend sec. 626 of the Penal Code of this State, relating to fish and game, approved March 3, 1895, repeals sub. 294 of sec. 25, of an act to establish a uniform system of county and township government, approved March 24, 1883. Consequently, all ordinances passed by the board of supervisors under the power creating said sub. 294, are also repealed. The act approved March 3, 1895, is a general law, and no board of supervisors in this State has the power to pass any ordinance in conflict therewith. Respectfully,

J. C. DALY, Assistant Attorney-General.

It will therefore be seen that angling for trout has been lawful since April 1 in any of the streams and lakes of this State that are open to the public. It is also to be noted that the act approved March 3, 1895, repeals sub. 294 of sec. 25, of an act to establish a uniform system of county and township government, approved March 24, 1883. Consequently, all ordinances passed by the board of supervisors under the power creating said sub. 294, are also repealed. SAN FRANCISCO, April 17.—Sporadic anglers will undoubtedly be pleased to learn that the supervisors of the different counties cannot meddle in any way with either the fish or game laws. It was thought that the supervisors had power to shorten either the game or fishing seasons in response to requests of the sportsmen of their respective counties, but, according to the following communication received by Commissioner of Fish and Game, the Attorney-General, the supervisors are powerless to make alteration in the general law. The following is a copy of the letter:

To Hon. T. E. Emery, President of the Fish Commissioners: Answering the communication of your board of March 30, I would say that the act to amend sec. 626 of the Penal Code of this State, relating to fish and game, approved March 3, 1895, repeals sub. 294 of sec. 25, of an act to establish a uniform system of county and township government, approved March 24, 1883. Consequently, all ordinances passed by the board of supervisors under the power creating said sub. 294, are also repealed. The act approved March 3, 1895, is a general law, and no board of supervisors in this State has the power to pass any ordinance in conflict therewith. Respectfully,

J. C. DALY, Assistant Attorney-General.

It will therefore be seen that angling for trout has been lawful since April 1 in any of the streams and lakes of this State that are open to the public. It is also to be noted that the act approved March 3, 1895, repeals sub. 294 of sec. 25, of an act to establish a uniform system of county and township government, approved March 24, 1883. Consequently, all ordinances passed by the board of supervisors under the power creating said sub. 294, are also repealed. The act approved March 3, 1895, is a general law, and no board of supervisors in this State has the power to pass any ordinance in conflict therewith. Respectfully,

HALF-MILLION CLUB.

NORTHERN VISITORS ARE HAVING A GOOD TIME.

They Met with the Chamber of Commerce and Merchants' Association Yesterday to Explain Motives and Plans.

The members of the Half-million Club who are in town are keeping themselves quite busy attending to various matters in connection with the purpose for which they took the trip here. Another meeting of the delegates was held yesterday morning at the Chamber of Commerce. The committee which had been appointed for that purpose reported suitable resolutions of thanks to the director-general of the fiesta, the Chamber of Commerce, the Merchants' Association and the citizens of Los Angeles for the reception tendered the club in this city. The resolutions were adopted. It was decided to change the time for holding the meeting, which had been set for 4:30 p.m. tomorrow, for the purpose of taking steps to bring the various sections of the California into closer relationship. The time was fixed instead at 10 a.m. tomorrow.

Director-General Meyberg of the fiesta, President Patterson of the Chamber of Commerce, Secretary Willard of the Chamber of Commerce and President Koepfli of the Merchants' Association were added to the invitation committee which had been previously appointed to invite representatives from the various cities in the vicinity to the meeting.

H. P. Norcross of the Los Angeles branch of the San Diego Chamber of Commerce appeared and extended an invitation to the party which included the Half-million Club delegation to visit San Diego. He said that arrangements would be made for their reception. The invitation was accepted with thanks and a committee was appointed to make the necessary arrangements for the trip.

Preparations were made yesterday for the party to leave this city for Santa Barbara at 2 o'clock this morning on the special train on which the party came from the north.

A number of the members of the club spent the time yesterday in visiting various points on the coast and in the interior towns. Members of the club say that the party which included the delegates and which came to this city by special train does not represent anywhere near the number of people that came from the north to visit the fiesta as a result of the efforts of the Half-million Club. Instead of about two hundred people being induced to come as a result of the efforts of the club it is stated that the number is not far short of two thousand.

The invitation committee yesterday afternoon prepared a circular, which was addressed to the Mayor or some other official of each of the following-named towns: Pasadena, Santa Ana, Santa Barbara, Ontario, San Bernardino, Redlands, Riverside, Pomona and San Diego.

The invitation committee of each of the above-named towns send five delegates to a meeting to be held at the Chamber of Commerce at 10 a.m. tomorrow, as above stated, to develop plans for promoting closer commercial and social relations between the different parts of California, and to stimulate united effort, looking to vigorous and hearty development of the whole State. It is requested that the person to whom the invitation is addressed in each case advise W. O. Uridge, chairman of the invitation committee, care of the Chamber of Commerce of this city, giving the names of the delegation.

Telegrams were sent to each of the above-named towns, suggesting a conference at each of them today between a few of the representative men and members of the Half-million Club delegation to visit the place.

"STOP THEE."

A Purse Grabber Who Tried an Old Dodge.

About 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon a thief grabbed a purse out of a young lady's hand, on Spring street just north of First. The thief started down First street on a dead run. Several persons who saw his act started in pursuit and the street being crowded a hundred men had soon joined in the chase.

The thief turned into Mott alley with the mob yelling at his heels. He outran them all, however, until he reached Second street into which he turned and ran to Main where he started to run towards First. At every step he made he yelled "Stop him! Stop him!" as though he was one of the pursuers instead of the pursued.

Policeman Vignes overhauled him in front of the Empire laundry. He struggled with the officer and tried to break away. Finally the policeman was compelled to knock him down in self-defense. As he fell he struck his face on the sidewalk and was badly cut over the left eye. He was taken to the station with the blood streaming down his face. There he gave the name of John Devine and hung the purse at Clerk Hensley, saying he would give it up and was sorry he did not get away. He was very defiant and swore like a pirate, berating the arresting officer and every one else who took part in the chase.

George M. Hall, an old gentleman living at 238 East First street, saw him snatch the purse and came to the station to give him name as a witness. Devine cursed him more than all the rest.

HEAVY PASSENGER BUSINESS.

Trains Bringing Great Crowds to the Show.

Each train from the suburban towns, as well as from the outside counties, continues to bring large complements of passengers coming to enjoy La Fiesta. One hundred and eighty passengers arrived over the Surf line yesterday, and the local trains were heavily patronized. The Southern California "Yalta Flyer" will continue to leave Redondo station at 9:30, Redlands at 9:40 and San Bernardino at 10 o'clock, arriving in Los Angeles at 11:45 o'clock. The returning special train will leave La Grande station at 11 p.m., after the conclusion of the evening programme of entertainment.

The special from Redondo will leave that little burg at 6:30 o'clock, return at 11 p.m., and the special return train to Santa Ana will also leave La Grande station at 11 p.m. These return trains will stop at intermediate points for the accommodation of sightseeing passengers.

A REFRIGERATOR LINE IN THE COLD.

On Monday last the Southern Pacific ukase against the Rock Island refrigerator line went into effect, by virtue of which the privilege of the Southern Pacific system is denied to the detriment of the other. While no explanation of the action is volunteered, the key to the situation may be found in the compact entered into by the Southern Pacific and the Southern California Railroad at the beginning of the current year. It was then agreed by the two companies that rates should be maintained, and no concessions should be made to individual shippers to the detriment of the others. Furthermore, it was stipulated that if any of the connections of either road cut out rates that pressure should be brought to bear against the offender and agreements with it canceled.

The inference is that the Rock Island refrigerator line that has 300 cars in its equipment, has been cutting into business by illegitimate means, and the measure of the Southern Pacific is simply of a retaliatory character.

A LA FIESTA TRAIN.

Engine No. 1170, and the two passenger coaches, on the Monrovia run over the Southern California road, have been put in such shape by Conductor Clay Johnson, Yale's Hair Tonic.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN: It affords me great pleasure to call the attention of the public to the Excelsior Hair Tonic, which is the first and only remedy known to chemistry which positively turns gray hair back to its original color without dye. It has gone on record that Mrs. M. Yale—wonderful woman chemist—has made this most valuable of all chemical discoveries. Mrs. Yale personally indorses its action, and gives the public her solemn guarantee that it has been tested in every conceivable way, and has proved itself to be the ONLY Hair Specific. IT STOPS HAIR FALLING IMMEDIATELY, and creates a luxurious growth. Contains no injurious ingredient. Physicians and chemists invited to analyze it. It is not sticky nor greasy; on the contrary it makes the hair soft, youthful, fluffy, and keeps it in curl. For gentlemen and ladies with hair a little gray, streaked gray, entirely gray, and men with BALD HEADS, it is specially recommended. All druggists sell it. Price $1.

If Anybody Offers a Substitute Shun Them.

MRS. M. YALE, Health and Complexion Specialist, Yale Temple of Beauty, No. 166 State street, Chicago. REDINGTON & CO., Wholesale Druggists, San Francisco, are supplying the Pacific Coast with all my remedies.

Brakemen M. H. Moore and A. W. Ross, the company's agent at Monrovia, as to make the train the envy of all other train crews on the road. The engine is one mass of flowers, principally carnation pinks, with the various parts of the locomotive picked out with red double pinks. The hat-racks in the coaches were filled with roses imbedded in delicate foliage, and between the windows palms are placed, held together by rosettes of flowers, forming La Fiesta colors. From the bell-cord hang a number of Chinese lanterns also filled with flowers.

INDIANS LIKE WATER.

The Terminal Railroad placed a special train at the disposal of Charles F. Lummis and his Indians yesterday for a spin to the beach. Only three of the dusky warriors had ever seen the sea before, and the sight tickled the fancy of the braves who are hugely enjoying their visit to a center of civilization.

BAD BLOOD.

Some of it Was Spilled and Trouble Ensued.

M. H. Madden, the man who was slugged Tuesday night by William Newell, swore to a complaint yesterday charging Newell and his brother John with battery. The Newells on hearing of the matter promptly surrendered themselves. They went before Justice Owens, where William pleaded guilty, and John not guilty, both claimed that the latter had nothing to do with the fracas. John gave bond for his appearance in court today. Sentence in William's case was deferred.

The affair was the outgrowth of the plumbers' strike now in progress. Both men are members of the Master Plumbers' Association. Madden employs union, and Newell non-union labor. Some of the master plumbers had a float in the fiesta parade which was manned by non-union men and their employers. Newell was on the float when it passed the Master Plumbers' Association headquarters in the Panoramia building. Madden and others were at the windows and cried "Scabs" and "Rats," so Newell says. He also asserts that Madden called him a vile name.

In consequence of this Newell called Madden to account and being unable to get a retraction he proceeded to make a Chinese war-map of Madden's face.

Bad Burglars.

James Barnes, jointly accused of burglary with D. H. Dorsey and Richard Johnson, was committed to the County Jail yesterday, in default of $1000 bail, to be held for examination. Dorsey and Johnson, his pals, have not yet been arrested, and it is feared without their apprehension the case against Barnes cannot be sustained. Dorsey is a red-headed individual, who is badly wanted by the police for a number of burglaries. It is believed he has escaped from the county.

The charge of burglary against F. L. Runge, who has been under arrest since the 8th inst., was discharged yesterday by Justice Morrison, there being insufficient evidence to hold him. Kaiser, his father-in-law and alleged accomplice, will be examined today, and will probably be held.

THE EDITORS

Are Enjoying Themselves on Mountain and Shore.

Reception Given Them at the Chamber of Commerce Last Evening.

The Keys of the City Delivered Up to the Visitors—A Factions Rail-road Official and Others Make Speeches.

The California Press Association left Echo Mountain yesterday morning and went to Santa Monica, where the day was spent in informal enjoyment. Some delay was experienced in returning to this city, so that the reception at the Chamber of Commerce, which was to be at 2 p.m., was not given till nearly 5 o'clock.

The members of the association reached the Chamber of Commerce at 4:30 o'clock, and it was nearly half an hour later when they were seated in the assembly-room.

The meeting was called to order by Gen. J. R. Matthews, who presided, he being the chairman of the committee which had been appointed to arrange the reception. After brief remarks of welcome to the guests, Gen. Matthews introduced Mayor Rader, who extended to them the freedom of the city.

In responding to the welcome, J. A. Fisher, president of the association, said that, having received the key to the city, the visitors would be exonerated from blame, should there be any burglaries. Turning from the jocular to the serious, he said the members of the association had not only enjoyed themselves, but they had instructed themselves. He believed they had imbibed some of the feeling of unity that binds the various portions of the State together.

President W. C. Patterson of the Chamber of Commerce, being next introduced, said the Chamber of Commerce is, to a great extent, what the press has made it. He said it is not the newspaper support and co-operation of the newspapers, the Chamber of Commerce could not have attained the success that it had. In conclusion, he extended the courtesies of the chamber to the guests.

W. H. Mills of San Francisco was asked to speak. "I was told," he said, "that I came here to see the Chamber of Commerce, though that is not conclusive evidence of the fact (vigorous applause)—that I was to deliver an address before the Chamber of Commerce. I began my career as a newspaper man, continued it as a real estate agent and am now an officer of the Southern Pacific. The keys of the chamber having been turned over, I therefore think I will take them."

The idea of an officer of the Southern Pacific taking something appeared to please the crowd and the association well was given with much vim and vigor.

Speaking in earnest, Mr. Mills pointed to the virtual overthrow of the Chinese dynasty as a result of the Japanese onslaught. Using this as an argument that it is not the quantity, but rather the quality of the people, that determines the strength of a nation, he said that Southern California is becoming strong because it is a community of homes.

The 250,000 people south of Tehachapi, he declared, have more capacity for building up a mighty civilization than 500,000,000 Chinese. He said that Los Angeles is destined to be the metropolis of Southern California, and it is not improbable a rival of all other cities of the Pacific Coast.

This fact should not be viewed with a feeling of jealousy. For the development of any portion of the country it is necessary there should be what may be termed a reservoir of trade. There must be some central point where business can be done on a large scale.

The prosperity of Los Angeles is distinctive. "The city," he said, "is an oasis in the great desert of general depression." The people to the north ought to keep their eyes on the prosperity about here, he urged, or the sovereignty will be established in this portion of the State.

Enthusiastic applause followed the remarks of Mr. Mills, and then President Fisher announced that a silver badge of the association had been offered to the man who shipped the first carload of oranges from California. There had been some dispute as to whom the honor is due, and it had been decided to turn the badge over to the custody of the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, the person entitled to the name to be determined by the organization.

The meeting was adjourned, and the visitors remained in town to witness the parade last evening. The programme of their itinerary provided for their departure for Santa Barbara at midnight. They are to return tomorrow and tomorrow evening they will attend the Burbank Theater. On Saturday night they will start on their homeward trip north.

PASADENA.

A REPRESENTATION TO APPEAR AT LA FIESTA.

Santa Barbara Wants to Secure the New Raymond—A Pretty Wedding at Los Robles—Personal Mention.

PASADENA, April 17.—(Special Correspondence.) The Robles, the beautiful South Pasadena residence of Mrs. Richard J. Robles, was the scene of one of the most brilliant social events of the season this evening, the occasion being the celebration of the birthday of Mrs. Robles's daughter, Miss Florence, and Thaddeus S. C. Lowe, Jr. The broad verandas were screened in with canvas, and rugs spread upon them, completely covering the floor. The furniture from the parlors was tastefully disposed thereon, and shaded lamps gave a soft and pleasing light, making them a favored vantage ground for viewing the brilliant throng that moved to and fro through the parlors and halls. At 7 o'clock the wedding march, played by the Lowinsky Orchestra, ushered in the bride party, which was composed of the bride, attended by her maid of honor, Misses Lillie Dobbin, and Misses Lillie and Mr. Sobelski. Lowe acted as best man, Messrs. Nelson W. Bell and E. R. Kellam as ushers, and W. E. Dobbin gave away the bride. The bride and groom stood in the west parlor, beneath a double curtain of smilax, gracefully trimmed with white carnations, and draped back with white satin ribbon. Only the most intimate friends of the family and the relatives witnessed the marriage ceremony, and the bride and groom were the only ones who remained in the room after the ceremony. The bride wore a gown of white tulle, with a high collar and long sleeves, and a diamond star, a gift of the groom, worn at the throat, and a diamond crescent, a wedding gift from a relative, fastening the long tulle veil over the high, plain collar. The bride's hair was dressed in white braids, and she wore a white dress with a high collar and long sleeves, and a diamond star, a gift of the groom, worn at the throat, and a diamond crescent, a wedding gift from a relative, fastening the long tulle veil over the high, plain collar.

ORANGE COUNTY.

MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCE OF MISS COWAN.

Arrest of Chinaman Sam Kee—Brilliant Wedding at Villa Park—Two Freight-trains are Wrecked.

SANTA ANA, April 17.—(Special Correspondence.) Where is Mary Cowan? Work was received in this city today that this young lady, who is a teacher in the Los Angeles public schools and resides with her parents at No. 824 West Tenth street, Los Angeles, left her room early yesterday (Tuesday) morning, since which time her whereabouts has been unknown to her relatives and friends either in Los Angeles or this city and vicinity.

Miss Cowan formerly lived in Tustin, this county, and it was thought by her friends in Los Angeles that she might have come down this way to make a brief visit, but she has not been seen since. In the light of the recent diabolical crimes in San Francisco, it is probable that she has been abducted, and her friends are greatly alarmed. Her friends are making diligent inquiry to locate her, but have been unable to do so. Her parents in Los Angeles are at a loss to account for her sudden and mysterious disappearance.

OPIMUM SMUGGLERS CAPTURED.—An important capture was made in Anaheim today and as a result of it a quantity of unstamped opium and Chinese whiskey was discovered in one of the houses of a Chinese merchant of questionable repute.

Deputy Collector L. M. Noah of Los Angeles and Constable Bittner of Anaheim made the arrest today and the discovery of the unstamped drug and whiskey immediately followed. Sam Kee is the unfortunate owner of the foreign property and now is being held in the Los Angeles jail. It is believed that he will be found in his possession of the property, but a pretty hard time in explaining matters satisfactorily in the United States courts.

The Los Angeles collector left on the afternoon train for the north, taking the Chinaman with him to place him in the Los Angeles County Jail. The arrest caused quite a sensation among the Chinamen in Anaheim and from their actions since the departure of their "cousin" for Los Angeles, it is believed more of the foreign goods is in hiding somewhere in the vicinity. Constable Bittner, however, is keeping a sharp eye on the matter and no further developments are expected any moment.

BARKER-PFEIFFER.—There was a brilliant wedding at the quiet little town of Villa Park, over by the foothills in this county, yesterday (Tuesday) when Arthur Barker and Miss Mollie Pfeiffer were made husband and wife.

A RAILROAD WRECK.—Two Santa Fe freight trains collided just this side of San Diego early this morning and as a result no trains arrived at this city today. The accident occurred about 10 o'clock, and the wreckage was a sight to behold. The trains were carrying a large quantity of goods, and the collision caused considerable damage to the property.

Arrangements are being made for an excursion from this city to Riverside next Monday over the Santa Fe Railroad, the occasion being the first of the season. The excursion will be a day trip, and will include a visit to the city of Riverside, and a return to this city by the same route.

SAN BERNARDINO COUNTY.

SCHEME TO CONSTRUCT A BEAUTIFUL SUMMER RESORT.

Meeting of the Etiwanda Fruit Company—The New Board of City Trustees—Improvements in the Park.

SAN BERNARDINO, April 17.—(Special Correspondence.) Negotiations have been going on for some time by which Smiley Bros. of Redlands have tried to secure a tract of eighty-five acres of land for the Etiwanda Lumber and Milling Company, which is a little valley on their domain.

The Etiwanda Lumber and Milling Company, which is a little valley on their domain, has been a favorite summer resort for company for years. The company have built a road at a cost of $50,000 up to their mill from the valley, and on this road, about half a mile from the mill, is the Smiley tract. Here they propose to put a landscape garden at once to work, laying out the grounds with beautiful drives, walks, etc., among the giant pines with which the ground is covered, and then erect a number of pretty cottages, in time a hotel annex to the cottages will be constructed, or they will sell lots to friends upon which they can build to suit each individual taste. There is plenty of excellent mountain-spring water that can be piped down under a strong pressure to create a useful power for machinery, beside a large spring right in the tract. It is only a short distance from this city, and the view over the whole valley, extending even to the Pacific Ocean, is magnificent. It is proposed to build a railway up to the tract as soon as the demands for such a conveyance are enough to make it pay. This resort is higher than the Summit house on Mt. Washington, the highest point of land in New England, and in time will make a very popular summer resort for pleasure-seekers, as the air is delightfully cool in summer and with the surrounding forests the ideal place for rest. The Etiwanda Lumber and Milling Company held an open air meeting last Saturday evening, at which President Frost and Secretary Gilbert were empowered to buy an acre of land of Charles Olney of Santa Ana for a building site for a new packing house.

The new Board of Election met last night and elected J. W. Thompson President and C. Elliott Secretary. Company E, of the National State Guard, will go to Los Angeles in the morning to participate in the La Fiesta. The new Board of City Trustees held their first regular meeting last night and commenced work of ordering the Finance Committee to meet the first of each month to advise on bills, and have them ready for presentation to the Board at the first meeting in the month. This will expedite matters very much. The bond on the City of Los Angeles, for $100,000, with A. Horowitz and H. L. Bond as sureties, and the bond of Oscar D. Foyas clerk in the same amount, with H. L. Bond and J. T. Collier as sureties were each approved.

A new plan for improvements in the park was presented and made the special order of the Board. The plan, when the designer, F. P. Hoop, landscape gardener, will be present and explain his plans to the Board.

Mrs. M. J. Erskine, widow of William F. Erskine, who was killed last November by the breaking of a rope while he was painting the exterior of the China Beet Sugar factory, has commenced suit in the Superior Court for damages, putting her claim at $25,000. She has three children to support, the youngest only 3 years old. Her lawyer is S. O. Houghton of Los Angeles.

SANTA MONICA. License Ordinance—Defogged Editors—Other Town Notes.

SANTA MONICA, April 17.—(Special Correspondence.) The Trustees met last night and cleared the docket upon the saloon question. Ordinances 204 and 207 were adopted to supersede ordinance No. 184, and the policy, as already outlined in this correspondence, was inaugurated, not without protest from a portion of the Board. In addition to regulations heretofore proposed, it was decreed that music shall not be permitted in saloons, but the license was not increased. After May 1 fifteen retail and three wholesale liquor licenses will be in operation, an increase of two over the present year.

BEFOGGED EDITORS.—Almost the only fog of any consequence which has visited this beach for many a day dropped in to mingle with the visiting editors at noon today. It enveloped the beach and wharf, and much of the seriously dampened the editorial ardor for the season of the April. But in other ways the visit of the brain-workers seemed to be satisfactory to all concerned, and after a hearty lunch at the Arcadia, and a visit to the wharf, the special train sped cityward.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.—A son was born today to Prof. and Mrs. C. I. D. Moore of the High School, over which event there was great rejoicing in the Moore household.

President Carillo did form the Committee on Temperance and the Soldiers' Home at the Trustees' meeting Monday evening. But in the confusion of adjournment the announcement was lost. The committee comprises Trustees Robert F. Jones, Rev. Dr. Stevenson and Carl P. Schrader.

George W. Cash, cashier of the First National Bank of Los Vegas, N. M., has taken rooms for the summer at Boehm's Villa. Mr. Smith will remain for a week, now his family will stay through the summer.

James Duncan, another resident of Los Vegas, and an old Santa Fe contractor, has also here for the summer, with his family, and has taken quarters on Second street.

The banks will be closed on Saturday in deference to La Fiesta.

GOT IN THEIR WORK.—Burglars Had a Busy Day During the Parade.

No less than half a dozen burglaries have been reported to the police as having occurred Tuesday afternoon while the festa parade was in progress. In every case the house robbed was an outlying residence where the entire family was absent viewing the parade.

The amount of booty secured was small so far as cash is concerned, but the thieves gave the names of the parties robbed. The work seems to have been done principally by sneak-thieves. In no instance was a house molested where anybody was at home. Several losses of valuables on the streets were reported, evidently the work of pickpockets.

One woman sent her husband to the police station to report that she had been robbed of her $165 watch and chain while viewing the parade. An hour or two later the man returned and stated that when his wife got home she found that she had forgotten to wear her watch when she went out; she found it safe on her dresser.

DEATH RECORD.—CALDWELL.—William A., dearly beloved husband of Julia Caldwell, aged 21 years 1 month 10 days. Funeral from family residence, No. 124 West Sixteenth street, Friday, April 19, at 2:30 p.m.

MOURNING hats and bonnets rented; no charge to customers. Zobel's, 219 E. Spring.

THE AGASSIS ASSOCIATION MAKES A BEAUTIFUL EXHIBIT—SPLENDID COLLECTIONS OF ROSES—BATAILLE DES FLEURS—Notes.

SANTA BARBARA, April 17.—(Special Correspondence.) The exhibition of flowers and plants at the Pavilion on Wednesday attracted a large attendance. Notable among the exhibits was an interesting and very beautiful collection of wild flowers from the surrounding hills and canyons, made by the Agassis Association. The Southern California Horticultural Association, which has its headquarters at Montecito, made a very notable exhibit of shrubs indigenous to all countries of the earth from Siberia to Central Africa and the Indies which have been proved to flourish in the outdoor air here.

Here they propose to put a landscape garden at once to work, laying out the grounds with beautiful drives, walks, etc., among the giant pines with which the ground is covered, and then erect a number of pretty cottages, in time a hotel annex to the cottages will be constructed, or they will sell lots to friends upon which they can build to suit each individual taste. There is plenty of excellent mountain-spring water that can be piped down under a strong pressure to create a useful power for machinery, beside a large spring right in the tract. It is only a short distance from this city, and the view over the whole valley, extending even to the Pacific Ocean, is magnificent. It is proposed to build a railway up to the tract as soon as the demands for such a conveyance are enough to make it pay. This resort is higher than the Summit house on Mt. Washington, the highest point of land in New England, and in time will make a very popular summer resort for pleasure-seekers, as the air is delightfully cool in summer and with the surrounding forests the ideal place for rest. The Etiwanda Lumber and Milling Company held an open air meeting last Saturday evening, at which President Frost and Secretary Gilbert were empowered to buy an acre of land of Charles Olney of Santa Ana for a building site for a new packing house.

The new Board of Election met last night and elected J. W. Thompson President and C. Elliott Secretary. Company E, of the National State Guard, will go to Los Angeles in the morning to participate in the La Fiesta. The new Board of City Trustees held their first regular meeting last night and commenced work of ordering the Finance Committee to meet the first of each month to advise on bills, and have them ready for presentation to the Board at the first meeting in the month. This will expedite matters very much. The bond on the City of Los Angeles, for $100,000, with A. Horowitz and H. L. Bond as sureties, and the bond of Oscar D. Foyas clerk in the same amount, with H. L. Bond and J. T. Collier as sureties were each approved.

A new plan for improvements in the park was presented and made the special order of the Board. The plan, when the designer, F. P. Hoop, landscape gardener, will be present and explain his plans to the Board.

Mrs. M. J. Erskine, widow of William F. Erskine, who was killed last November by the breaking of a rope while he was painting the exterior of the China Beet Sugar factory, has commenced suit in the Superior Court for damages, putting her claim at $25,000. She has three children to support, the youngest only 3 years old. Her lawyer is S. O. Houghton of Los Angeles.

SANTA MONICA. License Ordinance—Defogged Editors—Other Town Notes.

SANTA MONICA, April 17.—(Special Correspondence.) The Trustees met last night and cleared the docket upon the saloon question. Ordinances 204 and 207 were adopted to supersede ordinance No. 184, and the policy, as already outlined in this correspondence, was inaugurated, not without protest from a portion of the Board. In addition to regulations heretofore proposed, it was decreed that music shall not be permitted in saloons, but the license was not increased. After May 1 fifteen retail and three wholesale liquor licenses will be in operation, an increase of two over the present year.

BEFOGGED EDITORS.—Almost the only fog of any consequence which has visited this beach for many a day dropped in to mingle with the visiting editors at noon today. It enveloped the beach and wharf, and much of the seriously dampened the editorial ardor for the season of the April. But in other ways the visit of the brain-workers seemed to be satisfactory to all concerned, and after a hearty lunch at the Arcadia, and a visit to the wharf, the special train sped cityward.

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.—A son was born today to Prof. and Mrs. C. I. D. Moore of the High School, over which event there was great rejoicing in the Moore household.

President Carillo did form the Committee on Temperance and the Soldiers' Home at the Trustees' meeting Monday evening. But in the confusion of adjournment the announcement was lost. The committee comprises Trustees Robert F. Jones, Rev. Dr. Stevenson and Carl P. Schrader.

George W. Cash, cashier of the First National Bank of Los Vegas, N. M., has taken rooms for the summer at Boehm's Villa. Mr. Smith will remain for a week, now his family will stay through the summer.

James Duncan, another resident of Los Vegas, and an old Santa Fe contractor, has also here for the summer, with his family, and has taken quarters on Second street.

The banks will be closed on Saturday in deference to La Fiesta.

No less than half a dozen burglaries have been reported to the police as having occurred Tuesday afternoon while the festa parade was in progress. In every case the house robbed was an outlying residence where the entire family was absent viewing the parade.

The amount of booty secured was small so far as cash is concerned, but the thieves gave the names of the parties robbed. The work seems to have been done principally by sneak-thieves. In no instance was a house molested where anybody was at home. Several losses of valuables on the streets were reported, evidently the work of pickpockets.

One woman sent her husband to the police station to report that she had been robbed of her $165 watch and chain while viewing the parade. An hour or two later the man returned and stated that when his wife got home she found that she had forgotten to wear her watch when she went out; she found it safe on her dresser.

DEATH RECORD.—CALDWELL.—William A., dearly beloved husband of Julia Caldwell, aged 21 years 1 month 10 days. Funeral from family residence, No. 124 West Sixteenth street, Friday, April 19, at 2:30 p.m.

MOURNING hats and bonnets rented; no charge to customers. Zobel's, 219 E. Spring.

SANTA BARBARA, April 17.—(Special Correspondence.) The exhibition of flowers and plants at the Pavilion on Wednesday attracted a large attendance. Notable among the exhibits was an interesting and very beautiful collection of wild flowers from the surrounding hills and canyons, made by the Agassis Association. The Southern California Horticultural Association, which has its headquarters at Montecito, made a very notable exhibit of shrubs indigenous to all countries of the earth from Siberia to Central Africa and the Indies which have been proved to flourish in the outdoor air here.

SCHEME TO CONSTRUCT A BEAUTIFUL SUMMER RESORT.

Meeting of the Etiwanda Fruit Company—The New Board of City Trustees—Improvements in the Park.

SAN BERNARDINO, April 17.—(Special Correspondence.) Negotiations have been going on for some time by which Smiley Bros. of Redlands have tried to secure a tract of eighty-five acres of land for the Etiwanda Lumber and Milling Company, which is a little valley on their domain.

The Etiwanda Lumber and Milling Company, which is a little valley on their domain, has been a favorite summer resort for company for years. The company have built a road at a cost of $50,000 up to their mill from the valley, and on this road, about half a mile from the mill, is the Smiley tract. Here they propose to put a landscape garden at once to work, laying out the grounds with beautiful drives, walks, etc., among the giant pines with which the ground is covered, and then erect a number of pretty cottages, in time a hotel annex to the cottages will be constructed, or they will sell lots to friends upon which they can build to suit each individual taste. ABSOLUTELY PURE

IN SOCIAL SPHERES.

St. John's Church was crowded yesterday, with relatives and friends, to witness the marriage at high noon of Albert Hodges Crutcher and Miss Kate Porter Page. The church was beautifully decorated by the young ladies of St. John's Guild with calla lilies, white roses and smilax in groves of leaves. It was a choral wedding, and the marriage was sung by the choir of the church; the ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Taylor. The bride was very lovely in a simple white organdie gown, trimmed with beautiful heliconia of lace and pearls; a long bertha of point applique lace added much to this dainty gown, and the conventional tulle veil, fastened with orange blossoms, fell to the hem. She carried a large cluster of bride roses, tied with white satin ribbon. The best man was Joseph Bohon, and the ushers, Messrs. George Lawrence, George Sinsbaugh, Elmer Meserve and Clifford Page. The bride was given away by her brother-in-law, Willoughby Rodman. Directly after the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride, for the relatives and special friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Crutcher will be at home after May first, when Mrs. Crutcher's mother, Mrs. Crutcher, will arrive.

NOTES AND PERSONALS.

The engagement is announced of John T. Griffith to Miss Adele Wedemeyer.

A jolly tally-ho party of Los Angeles and Pasadena girls visited Geneva, Ala., at Baldwin's ranch on Saturday last. The party was chaperoned by Miss Angell and Mrs. Blake. Annis Van Nuy, Gertrude Mason, Gusie Dunckelberger, Max and Helen, Helen Davenport, Lucy Sinsbaugh, Grace Gregory, Margaret Cornwall, Myra Lindley, Blanch Donnell, Lena Dillard, Kate Van Nuy, and the Misses Widney were the invited guests.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Mann and sons, Charles and Frank, entertained at dinner a company of friends at their home, corner of Olive and Third streets. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Skinner and son, Samuel; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Holabird, Miss Holabird, Prof. and Mrs. E. K. Jones, Miss Helen Isaacs, Prof. and Mrs. W. S. Norvell, La Mar Norvell, Mrs. C. W. Dickson, Miss Daisy Dickover, Mrs. de Foe Skinner, Leslie Skinner.

The Ladies' Swedish Quartette pleased audiences at the Y.M.C.A. Hall Tuesday evening and yesterday afternoon. Each member has a voice of great sweetness, which blend in harmony. Owing to the ill-luminated parlors last evening there was no evening concert, but a matinee was given at 2 o'clock tonight. This evening will be "German night."

Miss Helen Isaacs, Miss Hodgson of South Berkeley, Me. are visiting their relative, Mrs. John L. Chase, No. 121 East Twenty-seventh street.

Licensed to Wed.

Marriage licenses were issued at the County Clerk's office yesterday as follows: Albert Hodges Crutcher, a native of Kentucky, aged 34 years, to Kate Porter Page, a native of Tennessee, aged 24 years, both being residents of Los Angeles.

Allen V. Fortier, a native of Louisiana, aged 23 years, to Mary M. Davis, a native of Texas, aged 22 years, and both residents of this city.

Charles Loubert, a native of Illinois, aged 38 years, a resident of Downey, to Olive I. Crawford, a native of California, aged 21 years, a resident of Whittier.

George W. Russell, a native of Scotland, aged 47 years, to Mrs. Anna McDade, a native of Austria, aged 46 years; both residents of this city.

E. B. Van Arman, a native of Indiana, aged 25 years, to Mabel Bryan, a native of Indiana, aged 19 years; both being residents of San Diego.

Fred Butterfield, a native of Iowa, aged 32 years, to Mary Butterfield, a native of Iowa, aged 21 years; both residents of this city.

Hipito Arce, a native of Mexico, aged 33 years, to Bisicacion Valenzuela, a native of California, aged 25 years; both residents of Los Angeles.

George W. Poling, a native of New York, aged 58 years, to Sarah E. Bradford, a native of Illinois, aged 52 years; both being residents of San Bernardino.

Edward H. Cook, a native of Minnesota, aged 23 years, to Hattie G. Ross, a native of Massachusetts, aged 18 years; both residents of this city.

William Carlton Grier, a native of Maryland, aged 25 years, to Jennie Bambalero, a native of France, aged 15 years; both residents of this city. The girl being under age, the parents appeared and gave formal consent to the marriage of their daughter.

THE ONWARD MARCH

of Consumption is stopped short by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. If you haven't waited beyond reason, there's complete recovery and cure.

Although by many believed to be incurable, there is the evidence of hundreds of living witnesses to the fact that, in all its earlier stages, consumption is a curable disease. Not every case, but a large percentage of cases, and we believe, fully 98 per cent, are cured by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

So far as to induce repeated bleedings from the lungs, severe lingering cough with copious expectoration (including tubercular matter), great loss of flesh and extreme emaciation and weakness.

Do you doubt that hundreds of such cases reported to us as cured by "Golden Medical Discovery" are genuine cases of that dread and fatal disease? You need not take our word for it. They have, in nearly every instance, been so pronounced by the best and most experienced home physicians, who have no interest whatever in misrepresenting them, and who were often strongly prejudiced and advised against a trial of "Golden Medical Discovery," but who have been forced to confess that it surpasses, in curative power over this fatal malady, all other medicines with which they are acquainted. Nasty cod-liver oil and its filthy "emulsions" and mixtures, had been tried in nearly all these cases and had either utterly failed to benefit, or had only seemed to benefit a little for a short time. Extract of malt, whiskey, and various preparations of the hypophosphites had also been faithfully tried in vain.

The photographs of a large number of lingering coughs, asthma, chronic nasal catarrh and kindred maladies, have been skillfully reproduced in a book of 100 pages which will be mailed to you, on receipt of address and six cents in stamps.

Then write those cured and learn their experience. Address: WORKING'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

Landlord Billick of the Hollenbeck Hotel yesterday caused the arrest of Jerry Fowler for petty larceny. Jerry was an employee of the hotel whom Mr. Billick suspected of stealing some of the hotel linen. He procured a search warrant and searched his trunk, and, instead of the linen, found a lot of silverware. Jerry will explain in court how it came there.

Thomas Kingsley and Belle Williams were arrested on New High street yesterday evening by Special Officer Brown, for disturbing the peace. The woman says Kingsley stopped her horse while she was driving along the street, minding her own business. Kingsley says the woman was chasing him with the buggy whip. They deposited $10 bail each for their appearance in the Police Court.

George McCurdy, the wayward girl who caused School Director Buchler's downfall, is now a prisoner in the City Jail, under the same roof with Mr. Buchler, who is serving a 60-day sentence. George lately graduated, or ran away from the Whittier High School, and was arrested Tuesday night by Officer Williams to serve a sentence of sixty days imposed upon her some time ago for petty larceny.

The Great Show Complete.

Fiesta's here and we are with you too; everything in readiness for the enormous crowd. A department store, the kind you read about but rarely see; the great trading mart where all can be supplied. Yesterday it was suggestive of a great exchange, so marked was the enthusiasm. Just as we predicted, many lines completely sold before the sun reached her meridian. Today another batch of brilliant bargains bids you welcome. While they last they are yours for a fixed sum so diminutive that you cannot afford to pass them by or let this chance escape you. Consider the advantages early shoppers have and guide yourself accordingly.

Today—Embroideries.

Embroideries on the left hand aisle from the large entrance, you cannot pass them by if you wanted to, the patterns alone, if price was never marked, would bait you, some dainty, some elaborate, all beautiful.

Nice cambric edges 1 to 3 inches wide, 8c.

Beautiful cambric edges, 2 to 4 inches wide, 12c.

Handsome cambric edges, 3 to 6 inches wide, 15c.

Grand cambric edges, 5 to 7 inches wide, 25c.

Silks.

The fabric in demand, right here the place where all the weaves are domiciled; every resource taxed to get supplies immediate for shelves depleted, they are here in all their beauty and richness now; crepon, plisse, kai kai, novelty, Gros d'London, armure, bengaline, Tulle Francaise, rhadame, duchess, taffeta, glace, surah, moire, dresden china, India, Jap and pongee silks, all the latest shades, black included; nothing like this aggregation in a retail establishment West we show the finest stock, we quote the lowest prices; today's specials are yet unnamed, but they'll be on hand at 9 a.m.; take a gentle hint and be right here.

Black dress goods, fine novelty suitings, figured moires and brilliant lines, black crepons, silk warp, henriettes, fine French serges and eudora cloths, all on special sale for La Fiesta. Reputation here is already earned, to maintain it now our chief desire, hence this interesting sale.

Wash Dress Goods.

Plisse (a new wash material), figured mulls, Russian ducks, figured welts, Irish lawn, figured dimity surah, twills, Tilly cloth and French satens are the list of specials named for Tuesday, today. This interesting list made doubly so by prices fixed thereon; take right hand aisle from largest entrance to see these latest weaves, the price we name will reach the lowest chord in this season's tune of prices.

Colored Dress Goods.

An entertaining list awaits you here, words will not quite suffice their elegance to poetry. We name the list of newest weaves, we quote the prices just as new:
